INTRODUCTION

Scope

This list is intended primarily as a guide to the substantive biomedical serials of which the National Library of Medicine holds at least one issue for 1950 or later. Serials which began after 1960 are not included. There are 8,939 titles in the list; these were selected from a working file consisting of about 18,500 serial titles represented in the Library's collections for this period.

In the compilation of this list, subject matter was the first criterion in determining whether or not a serial title was to be included. Serials with subject matter within the scope of the Library's collecting policies were considered for inclusion; serials acquired for administrative or working purposes were automatically excluded. Decisions on the nature of the serials were made on the basis of information in the working file records; in case of doubt, the latest issue available was examined.

Beyond this original criterion, and within this framework, serials were included or excluded on the following bases:

1. In general, only serials issued more frequently than annually were included. Monographic serials, review journals, and proceedings and transactions of societies and institutions constituted an exception to this rule, because of the generally substantive nature of their contents.

2. Proceedings and transactions of congresses were not included.

3. The following types were excluded regardless of frequency of issue: administrative reports; books-in-parts; college catalogs, trade catalogs, announcements; directories; general library titles, that is, serials in the library because it is a library and not because it is a medical library; general news publications; programs and prospectuses of societies and institutions; publishers' series; research progress reports; statistical reports.

4. Serials in the following categories were included or excluded on the basis of their individual characteristics, as determined by an examination of the latest issue available:

- a. Alumni, undergraduate, and intercollegiate fraternity publications were included only if they contained signed articles which might be expected to be of interest to an audience larger than the issuing bodies.
- b. House organs were included only if they contained signed articles of general interest and appeared not to be primarily promotional of the firm's products or services.
- c. Reprint journals, collected papers, and collected reprints were included only if they contained original papers or re-set reprints.
- d. Selectively acquired serials were included only if the Library had acquired, or expected to acquire, a reasonably large number of volumes.

Entry form

Medical librarians generally seem to consider title listing superior to the use of corporate entries for serials with non-distinctive titles, and we have tried to adhere to this principle. It is easy to agree, in the case of titles such as Lahey Clinic bulletin, a straightforward title, which would in regular cataloging practice be entered under Boston. Lahey Clinic. Bulletin. There are, however, many cases where a simple solution of this nature is not possible. If the title was non-distinctive, the latest piece available was examined to see how the information appeared on the title page, cover, caption, masthead, running title, etc., in that order of preference. In some cases, this produced straightforward entries, of varying kinds, such as:

AKADEMIE für Staatsmedizin Düsseldorf. Jahrbuch.
AMERICAN Statistical Association. Proceedings of the Social Statistics Section.
ARCHIVES de l'Institut Pasteur d'Algérie.
REAL Academia de Farmacia de Barcelona. Discursos de recepción.
TRAVAUX du Laboratoire d'anatomie de la Faculté de médecine d'Alger.
UNIVERSITET i Bergen. Årbok. Medisinsk rekke.

In other instances, decisions were based mainly on the following principles:

- a. If the corporate name appeared at the head of the title page, or title page substitute, it was ignored if the name of the body appeared also as part of the title itself.

EXAMPLE: [TRUDY nauchnoï sessii Soveta po koordinatsii Akademii nauk
Azerbaidzhanskoï SSR]

- b. If the name of the superior body appeared first on the title page, or title page substitute, followed by the title and the name of a subordinate unit which was distinctive, the serial was listed under the title followed by the name of the subordinate unit. The name of the superior body appears in issuing body position, but not in parentheses.

EXAMPLES: [TRUDY Instituta mikrobiologii i virusologii. Akademiiâ nauk
Kazakhskoï SSR]

[TRUDY Instituta klinicheskoi i eksperimental'noi khirurgii.
Akademiiâ nauk Kazakhskoï SSR]

- c. If the name of a subordinate unit appeared first on the title page, or title page substitute, followed by the superior body's name and then the title, the serial was listed under the title followed by the organization's name:

EXAMPLE: PROCEEDINGS, North Central Section of the American Urological Association.

Entry information

1. Title. Initial articles are usually omitted from the beginning of an entry. Title changes other than minor ones or ones that lasted a short time only, within the 1950-60 period, are usually represented by separate entries with notes referring to the predecessor and/or successor title in the form in which they appear in the list. Works in non-Roman alphabets are listed in transliterated form, enclosed in brackets when the transliterated form did not appear on the pieces. The transliteration tables in A. L. A. Cataloging Rules for Author and Title Entries, 2d ed., 1949, are used as the basis for transliterating the languages listed there. Chinese transliteration is done according to the Wade-Giles system. Transliteration of Japanese characters is done according to the modified Hepburn system used in Kenkyusha's New Japanese Dictionary, 1954.

2. Publishing or issuing body. Usually only the latest publisher known is cited, following the title, enclosed in parentheses. Commercial publishers are usually not cited. If there is no publisher, as such, the body of which the serial is an official organ is cited in issuing body position. If there is more than one issuing body, all are mentioned if there are not more than three, otherwise only the first is cited, followed by "etc." If the publisher or issuing body is apparent from the title, it is not repeated in issuing body position. If both an issuing body and a non-commercial publisher are indicated on the piece, the publisher is cited following the title and the other body is mentioned in a drop note; if the situation is more complicated, an explanation is made in a drop note.

3. Place. Usually only the latest place known is cited. The form of the name and the amount of data given are based on the Rules for Descriptive Cataloging in the Library of Congress, 1949.

On occasion, it has been necessary to add the name of the country following a city such as London or Paris merely to be able to indicate that in the Library's records the serial is entered under the name of the country. A country's name is given in the vernacular if we knew it appeared in the pieces; otherwise, in English.

4. Descriptive holdings information or imprint date.

- a. Descriptive covering dates, when available, are preferred to imprint dates.
- b. A question mark after volume or number information and also after month or year indicates we think it began or ceased with that issue or volume, but are not sure. Sometimes the information is enclosed in brackets, which means that the information was supplied from a source outside the piece.

5. Frequency. Only the latest frequency information shown in the Library's serial records at time of editing is given, when it was available. The following symbols have been used to indicate frequency:

d.	daily
s-w.	semi-weekly
w.	weekly
b-w.	bi-weekly
s-m.	semi-monthly
tri-m.	tri-monthly
m.	monthly
b-m.	bi-monthly
q.	quarterly
s-a.	semi-annually
a.	annually
sel. acq.	For selectively acquired serials that are listed, no frequency is given. In its place we use "sel. acq."
bien.	biennially
trien.; etc.	triennially, etc.
irr.	irregular
4/yr.; etc.	Four times a year, etc. This type of notation is given instead of q., for example, when there are 4 issues a year which do not come out on a regularly scheduled basis within the year.

6. Notes. Only notes relating to issues for 1950 and later are provided.

7. Dash entries. Dash entries have been used for the separate entry of supplements that are serials in their own right but which have a title consisting only of the title of the serial which they supplement, plus the word Supplement, or the equivalent.

EXAMPLE: ANNALES paediatricae Fenniae. Supplementum.

An entry for such a supplement is treated as a dash entry following the entry for the basic serial. (When a supplement serial has a distinctive title, it is entered under that title and the supplementary relationship to another serial is brought out in a note.

EXAMPLE: BIBLIOTHECA cardiologica ...
Supplement to Cardiologia.

No cross-reference is made from Cardiologia. Supplement. to Bibliotheca cardiologica).

Arrangement of entries

1. Entries are arranged alphabetically, word-by-word to the end of the title, ignoring any initial or internal articles, internal conjunctions and prepositions.
2. When there is more than one entry with the same title, the entries are subarranged:
 - a. By place of publication
 - b. By date, earliest to the latest
 - c. By issuing body.
3. The German, Scandinavian, Finnish, Hungarian, and Turkish ä, ö, ü, the Hungarian ő and ú, and the Danish-Norwegian ø are filed as if written ae, oe, ue. The Scandinavian å is filed as if written aa.
4. Abbreviations are arranged as if spelled in full.
5. Punctuation marks are disregarded.
6. Compound words that are printed sometimes as one word, and sometimes as two words, or hyphenated, are usually filed as one word.
7. Words with a hyphenated prefix, such as ex-, inter-, pro-, are arranged as one word.
8. Names consisting of two or more words, with or without a hyphen, are filed as separate words.
9. A name with a prefix is arranged as one word.

EXAMPLE: La Plata files as one word.

10. A numerical or chronological arrangement, instead of alphabetical, is used when a number or date distinguishes between entries otherwise the same.

EXAMPLE: BOLETIN de la 1. Cátedra de Kinesiología "Nicanor Palacios Costa" files as Boletín ... Cátedra ... rather than as Boletín ... primera ...

Cross-references

In general, see references are made only from title variations existing during the period 1950-60, as follows:

- a. From title variations in a piece, other than minor ones
- b. From title variations used on different pieces within a period covered by an entry, other than minor variants
- c. From alternative titles
- d. From subtitle if it was considered likely this would be thought of as the title (of rare occurrence)
- e. From the part of a title starting with a surname, in the case of an entry beginning with initials or forenames
- f. From the part of a title starting after the name, in the case of a title beginning with a person's name
- g. To bring out a serial published only as part of another serial and not represented by a separate entry in the list

- h. From a title also issued in another language when the title in that language was not represented in the list (because it was not represented in the Library by issues for the 1950-60 period)
- i. From English title given in Oriental works, or English translation of the title, when such title was available in sufficient fullness to make it feasible.

Items for further study

Two particularly interesting questions, arising during the course of this compilation, merit further study and elucidation:

1. The original working file consisted of about 18,500 titles; this was reduced to 8,939 titles on the basis of scope criteria. Of these 8,939 titles, 3,228, indicated by the dot (.) preceding the title, were presumably dead (i. e., NLM had no issue later than 1958 at the time of editing). The remaining 5,711 live titles, about one-third of the original file, give a reasonable measure of the number of current substantive medical serials, as of 1960. If from this we were to subtract the titles of the secondary indexing and abstracting publications included, we should probably come to the conclusion that the rate of growth of substantive medical publications is horrendous, but not quite so overwhelming as has often been represented.

2. The chaotic nature of medical publications, and the difficulties which the librarian must overcome in dealing with them, is nowhere more explicitly and succinctly represented than in the confusion and tumult of the lack of standardization of such an essentially simple matter as title page format and order. Decades of effort have established cataloging rules which, while fairly clear and reliable to a knowing in-group of librarians, most of the time, may leave much to be desired as to ease of use by the physician-bibliographer, at most times. On the other hand, the simple solution, so often proposed, to solve the dilemma merely by converting "corporate entries" to "title entries" proves often to be not so simple, after all. (Cf. Entry form, above). It would seem that there is no single, all-embracing, readily understood and readily remembered principle which may be applied consistently so as to provide entries which are at once universally recognizable, unambiguous, and offering no violence to one's sense of proportion and reasonableness. The faults, the perplexities, and the resulting inadequacies surely do not lie entirely at the doorstep of the librarian, who, after all, must try to describe things as they are, rather than as they might be in a more rational world.

Acknowledgments

The compiler wishes to acknowledge her indebtedness to the people who helped her in many ways; first, to the medical librarians of the Washington, Richmond, and New York City areas and the members of the MLA Bibliography Committee who were generous with their time and ideas in the planning stages. Second, to members of the NLM staff who participated in the compiling of the list: Mr. Harold Koehler, who aided in the selection of titles; Miss Gloria Grant, Mrs. Judith Greenfield, and Miss Cora E. Morrison, who edited the entries; Mr. Lucius Lamar, who did the lion's share of the typing; Mr. John McCarthy, for the major part of the proofreading; Mr. David Clark, who compiled the working files, checked the holdings and frequency information, and aided in other ways too numerous to detail; Mr. Samuel Lazerow and Dr. Frank B. Rogers, without whose counsel and support this list would never have come into being.

SYMBOLS

- A dot before an entry indicates NLM had no issue later than 1958 at the time of editing.
- †
- A dagger used as the last part of the description preceding the drop notes indicates NLM had scattered holdings, or large gaps in holdings, for the period 1950-60, of a serial it aims to acquire completely. The absence of a dagger does not mean the Library has every issue; there may be minor gaps.
- sel. acq.
- This is used as the last element of description in the paragraph preceding the drop notes to indicate NLM aims to acquire the serial only on a selective basis.
- An underline used under the first letter of a word indicates the entry for the serial in NLM's records begins with the word underlined, or one similar to it. This device is used only when the entry in this list differs from the entry in NLM's records.
- A dash used in descriptive holdings position following a date indicates the title, as far as we could ascertain, was still being issued at the time of editing.
- ad
- This symbol is used in notes to stand for continued by, superseded by, merged into, or absorbed by.
- ex
- This symbol is used in notes to stand for continues, supersedes, or formed by the union of.
